CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

The Young Scholars Interdisciplinary Forum (YSIF) requests proposals from current Fox School faculty and PhD students for seed funding grants to undertake novel research projects. Funding is available to encourage and support early-stage interdisciplinary collaborative research.

Seed funding amounts typically range from $500 - $5,000. Smaller or larger funding requests will be considered based on the particular needs of the project. Groups should aim to facilitate research projects that span departments, reaching beyond the Fox School. Funding amounts are based on the particular needs of the research. The YSIF proposal groups should aim to facilitate research projects that span departments beyond the Fox School.

GUIDELINES

Completed packets should be sent via email to Lauren Murawski (L.Murawski@temple.edu) by Friday, October 19th at 12:00pm. At least one member of the research team must be onsite to present their poster on November 7th at the Young Scholars Interdisciplinary Forum. No student or faculty member is permitted to present twice.

Proposal submissions should explain how the project builds on the applicants' previous research work, seeks to extend their research into new directions, and intends to enhance professional development.

Each proposal packet must include the following:

- Completed submission template (attached)
- Research Proposal
- CV for each author

SELECTION CRITERIA

Selection is based on the following criteria:

- The ability of the research to engage several disciplines within and beyond the Fox School
- The probability that the research will result in important findings that could be published in prominent journals
- The feasibility to attract additional support from other funding sources
- The potential of the project and the ability of the group to undertake the research
