

The Fox School of Business and Temple University have deep roots in the global economy and enjoy a worldwide reputation. Following the creation of wholly-owned international campuses (1968: Rome; 1982: Tokyo), unprecedented at the time among peers, the undergraduate Fox IB program was born with the creation of the IB Major in 1984. Since then, thousands of students, as well as countless staff and faculty, have contributed to the program's achievements and milestones.

Starting in 2016, Fox began offering an International Business Minor as an option for students across the university.

Among others, the Fox IB program's team was instrumental in the foundation of the nationally-renowned Consortium for Undergraduate IB Education (CUIBE).

ABOUT THE FOX SCHOOL OF BUSINESS

Established in 1918, the Fox School at Temple University has a distinguished tradition of preparing business leaders, professionals, and entrepreneurs for successful careers. Today, it is the largest, most comprehensive business school in the greater Philadelphia region, and among the largest in the world.

However, it still offers a close-knit community. Fox faculty connect and engage with students. Alumni eagerly assist with networking and job opportunities. When you attend the school, you become a member of the Fox family, a powerful support system that boosts your potential - and takes you further than you ever thought possible.
